When we say that we serve feelgood food, we really do, because we're part of the charity My Life.

Not only is any income we generate reinvested into the work of My Life, but many of the fresh ingredients that end up on your plate are grown by the charity's members on our 84-acre countryside site, or locally sourced within a 20-mile radius. Members of My Life also develop real world catering and hospitality skills with us, increasing their life and work skills.
